Dear Friends:

In 2004 we introduced Genworth Financial as a public company. As we entered the world as an independent business, we also introduced ourselves as a company of giving – creating the Genworth Foundation, our charitable giving arm, in late 2005.

Our organization has provided grants that have addressed basic living needs, ensured educational opportunities for youth, enhanced the quality of life for seniors, provided emergency funds in crisis situations and awarded capital grants to a variety of causes. Our volunteers have logged thousands of hours. Our employees and our company have given millions of dollars.

Our goals for the future are high, but attainable. In the coming year, we will enhance our matching gift program, focus on our core areas of giving for impact and continue to foster our spirit of volunteerism.

The intelligence, compassion and giving spirit of our employees and the contribution to the vitality of the communities in which we work and live are among the true measures of success for our company. Looking at the stories of the lives we have touched, we can say that our company has certainly achieved success. We will continue to effect change in the world, one volunteer, one project and one life at a time.

The Genworth Foundation invests in community programs around the world, through charitable grants and matching gifts. This charitable giving arm of Genworth Financial focuses on three key areas: supporting access to basic needs, enriching seniors' lives and providing educational opportunities for at-risk youth.

CHANGING THE WORLD, ONE FAMILY AT A TIME.

For Shontá Watts, life changed at 3:30 a.m. on August 28, 2005. That is when she started her car and headed out of New Orleans with her daughter in the passenger seat, fleeing from the impending Hurricane Katrina. Before it was all over, Shontá lost her home, her job, her city and her way of life. Luckily, she had extended family in Richmond, Virginia.

After the hurricane, Genworth made a donation to the American Red Cross and also helped evacuees – including Shontá – start over in Virginia and North Carolina

“Genworth stepped into my life approximately one week after Hurricane Katrina and LIFE has been awesome ever since.”

— Shontá Watts

by providing rental and utility assistance in partnership with three non-profit organizations. Shontá needed work, so Genworth reached out and found her a temporary position in the legal department. When a permanent role opened in another department, Shontá jumped at the opportunity. Today she works in the Community Relations department of Genworth Financial, where she's reaching out, giving back and changing the world for others.

CHANGING THE WORLD, ONE CAMPER AT A TIME.

Claire's life changed seven years ago when she lost her dad. But every summer since then, Comfort Zone Camp, a bereavement program for youth, has been there. The camp gives Claire and hundreds of other kids a feeling of belonging, constant support and a chance to talk to and play with other children who have experienced the death of a close loved one.

Comfort Zone Camp was one of nine Richmond-area charities that benefited from the second Genworth Foundation Children's Advantage Classic tennis exhibition. Claire was chosen to be a part of the exhibition, which featured Andre Agassi and Steffi Graf. This event raised more than $535,000 for Richmond's youth.

"When I'm at Comfort Zone, I have such a feeling of belonging. Just knowing that everyone there understands me makes talking about my loss so much easier."

– Claire Sullivan

CHANGING THE WORLD, ONE ORGANIZATION AT A TIME.

The Genworth Foundation's capital grant of $50,000 to the Junior League of Raleigh, North Carolina, will impact the world of hundreds of at-risk children. Their Center for Community Leadership offers non-profit organizations a place where they can gather to share resources and work together.

As part of our commitment to the community, Genworth Financial supports charitable events where we live and work around the world. Our 2006 charitable events included the Alzheimer's Association Memory Walk,[®] the Grand Slam for Children,[®] the Young Achievement Australia Award and the Genworth Children's Advantage Classic.

CHANGING THE WORLD, ONE STEP AT A TIME.

In this case, changing the world literally meant going the extra mile. Last year, hundreds of thousands of walkers and volunteers participated in 600 Alzheimer's Association Memory Walks across America. And Genworth Financial was there every step of the way, as the national presenting sponsor of the event. Since 1989, these walks have raised more than $200 million to help those battling this disease.

Genworth Financial has committed $7.5 million to the Alzheimer's Association to help raise public awareness and eliminate the disease through education

*"I decided to participate in the Memory Walk in San Francisco to raise money and awareness among my family and friends. The whole experience made me proud to work for a company that doesn't just 'talk the talk.'" — Allison McDonnell and the advancement of research. Genworth employees have been consistent supporters of Alzheimer's prevention and cure initiatives through their participation in Memory Walks. Since 2000, our employees have raised more than $2.4 million for the cause.

CHANGING THE WORLD, ONE YOUNG WOMAN AT A TIME.

Changing lives means changing lifestyles. Girls on the Run® is a non-profit program that encourages preteen girls to develop self-respect and healthy lifestyles through running. Its curricula address all aspects of girls' development – their physical, emotional, mental, social and spiritual well-being. Last year in Lynchburg, Virginia, the group's 12-week fall program culminated in a 5K run/walk with more than 50 girls and their families and friends participating. Genworth Financial sponsored the run/walk and is also the founding sponsor for the greater Lynchburg program.

*"I truly believe in this program! It promotes self-respect at an early age and establishes the pattern for a healthy lifestyle... foundations that will truly help build and develop young girls for their future."
– Elena Edwards, Genworth Financial, Lynchburg, Virginia*

CHANGING THE WORLD, ONE MENTEE AT A TIME.

Genworth Financial supports the Connecticut Mentoring Partnership, an organization created to increase the number of youth in formal mentoring relationships within the state. Genworth Financial was named to the 2006 corporate Honor Roll for its commitment to mentoring in Stamford.

Genworth Volunteers is a global organization made up of employees and retirees – and this group reaches out through volunteer efforts nearly every day. Our dedicated force donates time, talent and hard work in our communities.

CHANGING THE WORLD, ONE NAIL AT A TIME.

How a house can change a life. The Habitat for Humanity® house sponsored by Genworth Financial in Lynchburg, Virginia, was not your ordinary Habitat build. Along with a donation by Genworth to support the build, hundreds of employees invested almost 1,000 hours working hand-in-hand with more than 60 special-needs builders. It was the ultimate expression of what hard-working, motivated people could do regardless of their physical circumstances. “This build was about ability, not disability,” said Genworth Volunteer Troy McHenry. “It was just simply inspiring to see how well we all worked to put up this house.” For the person who lives here, the new home will open up a whole new world of possibilities.

*“I want to thank all the Genworth employees for working on the house and also for their encouragement and words of wisdom.” – Jennifer Cranford
Homeowner*

CHANGING THE WORLD, ONE PLAYGROUND AT A TIME.

Helping change take root. In 2006, 30 Genworth Volunteers joined 340 schoolchildren, teachers and parents at Crown Street Public School in Sydney, Australia, for a “Big Day Out.” The event was held to help re-plant and re-landscape the grounds of this Victorian-era school.

Genworth donated roughly 800 plants and trees, and volunteers pitched in to plant trees and landscape the school playground. It was a rewarding day for the Genworth Volunteers, and the children enjoyed learning about landscaping and environmental responsibility.

“The Big Day Out is about improving the school environment while providing a fun and educational day for the children. It’s also good for our employees who get a lot out of it knowing they are making a real difference for the kids, the school and the local community.”

– Peter Hall, Genworth Financial, Australia

CHANGING THE WORLD, ONE VISIT AT A TIME.

Every month, Genworth Volunteers from Mexico City visit Missionaries of Charity to reach out and change a life. Members of this group spend time with children and seniors, assisting them with reading, eating and home tasks. Last year, Genworth announced a long-term partnership with this charity, which was founded by Mother Teresa in Calcutta, India.

MATCHING GIFTS

Genworth employees and retirees generously donate funds to a variety of causes and community initiatives. Today, these contributions provide support to thousands of U.S.-based organizations, including schools and not-for-profit organizations. Genworth Foundation matches contributions dollar-for-dollar, for donations from $100 up to $10,000 annually. The following list reflects gifts registered from the program launch in September 2005, through January 2006, and the corresponding grants were made in mid-2006. As employees continue to maximize their personal philanthropy commitments through this program, in future years of this publication our list of organizations we touch will grow. In 2007, the Foundation will launch matching gift programs in additional countries.

Congratulations to our new Genworth team in Brentwood, Tennessee, who was honored with the United Way "Best Company" award in 2006. This location participated in a United Way campaign for the first time in 2006.

FUNDRAISING AND IN-KIND DONATIONS

In addition to giving through the United Way and our matching gifts program, our employees also give back through fundraising events and in-kind donation drives. Last year, employees raised $329,975 to support a variety of organizations around the globe – and they have also collected food, clothing, personal care items, school supplies and even teddy bears to assist individuals and families in need.

Changing the world, one athlete at a time.

Last year in Paris, France, Genworth employees laced up their running shoes to participate in a run to support the Special Olympics. This international organization is dedicated to empowering individuals with disabilities to become physically fit, productive members of society through sports training and competition. Companies throughout the business district of La Défense Paris joined together to support the cause. Genworth employees raised much-needed funds, which were used to finance delegation travel and the Special Olympics World Summer Games.

Changing the world, one homeowner at a time.

Our Canadian mortgage insurance business does everything it can to help people stay in their homes through the Default Mortgage Program. Each homeowner at risk goes through a “workout,” which is designed to help find a way for the owner to stay in his or her home. But our Canadian employees were looking for a way to do more. Two families from the Default Mortgage Program were selected to be the recipients of a newly created charitable program called the Genworth Holiday Elves. Moms, dads and kids all received special gifts of toys, clothing and other items that were donated by Genworth employees.
