Genworth Foreclosure Prevention Efforts Approach Nearly $5 Billion in Mortgage Dollars Saved

Genworth Financial helped prevent more than $4.7 billion in mortgages from foreclosure in the 12 months ending June 30, 2010, an all-time high for the private mortgage insurer. The company worked with lenders and servicers nationwide to successfully complete more than 30,000 loan workouts through its Homeowner Assistance program, helping eight out of 10 borrowers facing financial difficulty keep their homes.

President Obama's Home Affordable Modification Program (HAMP) accounted for more than one half of total mortgage dollars saved and 36 percent of Genworth workouts, followed by loan modifications (29 percent), short sales (16 percent) and repayment plans (15 percent).

Nationally, Genworth experienced a 78 percent increase in workouts, compared to the same time one year prior. Workouts through the HAMP program continue to gain traction, with Genworth HAMP workouts nationwide accounting for more than $2.3 billion in mortgages saved through the program.

Key findings for the Q2 2010 Scorecard:

- Each mortgage workout amounted to, on average, a savings of $189,349 per borrower.
- Nationally, more than eight out of 10 troubled homeowners helped by Genworth were able to keep their homes.
- Genworth's cure rate consistently remains above 80 percent nationwide.
- Among the top ten states, Chicago was the leading city for mortgage dollars saved ($65 million), followed by Phoenix ($51 million), Miami ($43 million), Houston ($25 million) and Charlotte ($23 million).
